OLAPTrader shall not be liable for any failure to provide the services, however, depending on the circumstances of the outage, we may offer a partial refund to our subscribers commensurate with the duration of the outage.

Resale Prohibited

The User is permitted to store, manipulate, and analyze the OLAPTrader Data for the User's private use only.

In no event shall the User sell, resell, retransmit, redistribute, provide or permit access to any OLAPTrader Historical or EOD Technical Indicator Data to anyone with any standard subscription. In the event that a company desires to legally redistribute the data, we may be able to work together to create a private offering on AWS Data Exchange to facilitate this.

Warranty

OLAPTrader would like to remind you that we strive to be 100% accurate, both with our base data (Ticker, Company Name, OHLC, Volume, Exchange, Currency, Country, ISIN Values, Split Info) as well as our calculated Technical Indicators/Japanese Candlesticks/Fibonacci Projections & Retracements. Our daily and historical OHLC, Volume, Metadata, Splits etc... is ingested from our EOD providers. That data is not guaranteed to be 100% accurate due to occasional interruptions and discrepancies, and incorrect split information particularly in some of the Asian and smaller markets, such as Pink Sheets. Due to the nature of the data and the sheer number of exchanges and data feeds, it is to be understood that there will most likely be some discrepancies across all of these sources. Discrepancies between one feed and another are irrelevant insofar as generating technical indicators for trading signals. The calculated indicator values will still be accurate for any particular feed. We interrogate the incoming feed and flag data which appears to be an aberration. Later, we re-ingest data for the same exchanges, correcting and filling in gaps if necessary. Aberrations (incorrect prices and volumes caused by improper split information) are thrown out and no indicator data is calculated for that particular ticker until the data is correct. We will not be liable for incorrect source data as our EOD provider themselves are not liable for inaccuracies in these feeds.

We use well established and industry battle tested financial functions contained in C/C++ libraries - both propriety and open source - in order to calculate our Indicators, Candlesticks and Fibonacci Ratios. As such, we will not be held liable for mathematical errors derived from bugs in the original source code.

Calculating technical indicators often requires choosing certain parameters such as the type of moving average to use in the calculation, the period to use, or things like CLV (Close Location Value), among many others. As a result, it will be very unlikely to find situations where the technical indicator value from one vendor exactly matches the value from another vendor.

OLAPTrader or anyone affiliated with OLAPTrader will not accept any liability for trading losses or damages as a result of reliance on the information including OHLC base data or computed indicator data. Please be fully informed regarding the risks and costs associated with trading the financial markets, it is one of the riskiest investment types possible.

If one of our subscribers brings to our attention an error in our technical indicator values which we have not yet accounted for, and for which the source code is not at fault, we may provide a partial or full refund if the subscriber is no longer satisfied with our product offering. We may also correct the error and publish a revision, and reward our subscriber with a bonus offering such as a Historical Data for a different exchange, or another package such as Japanese Candlesticks or Fibonacci Projections/Retracement prices.
